Processing framework

Purpose and legal basis for processing Sec. 6 (1) (a) (b) (f) GDPR

Video Monitoring: The video monitoring systems are used to reduce and prevent crimes and to investigate crimes or other serious violations, to enforce domiciliary rights and for protection of ownership.

Legal basis: the legal basis for processing is based on publicly accessible areas in Sec. 6 (1) (f) GDPR. Regarding employees, the processing is also based on §26 (1) Federal Data Protection Act and on Sec. 6 (1) (f) GDPR. The legitimate interest of the responsible person in processing data results in all cases from the fact that the above-mentioned purposes of processing outweigh the minimum harm to the person concerned which is caused by the processing and short-time storage.

Recipients (categories) of personal data

Internal bodies, which are involved with carrying out the relevant business processes: IT department, executive management and data protection coordinator

External bodies: none

Duration of storage / deletion

We store the video data at least until the end of the next working day, as a general rule no longer than 72 hours. A further storage and processing take place, if this is necessary for the above mentioned purpose, especially for the preservation of evidence. The data is deleted after loss of the storage purpose.

Rights of the person concerned

You have the right to:

- get information concerning the data stored in relation to your person (Sec. 15 GDPR). Especially, you can request information about the purpose of processing, the categories of personal data, the categories of recipients who received or will receive your data, the storage duration, right to the correction, deletion, restriction of processing or contradiction, right to appeal, information about the origin source of your personal data, if your data was not collected from us and if there is an automated decision making, including profiling and, if necessary, to get significant information on details.
- correction, if wrong personal data is processed (Sec. 16 GDPR).
- deletion and restriction as well as contradiction against the data processing (Sec. 17, 18, 21 GDPR).

- data transmission (Sec. 20 GDPR), to get your personal data in a conventional, structured and machine-readable format or the transmission to another responsible person.
- revocation of consent (Sec. 7 (3) GDPR). As a result of this, we stop the data processing that was based on your consent.
- Right of appeal to the supervisory authority (Sec. 77 GDPR).

Right of appeal

If your personal data is processed on the basis of legitimate interests according to Sec. 6 (1) (f) GDPR, you have the right to appeal against the processing of your personal data according to Sec. 21 GDPR, as far as the responsible person cannot prove compelling and legitimate reasons for the processing and the interests, rights and freedoms of the person concerned predominate or the processing serves to the enforcement, exertion or defence of legal claims.

Right of withdrawal of consent

Every person concerned has the right within the meaning of Sec. 6 (1) (a) or Sec. 9 (2) (a) to withdraw individual or all the consents given, e.g. for the performance of a contract at any time and without any disadvantages, without affecting the lawfulness of the processing carried out on the basis of the consent until such time as the consent is withdrawn.
